Local candidates reminded to file campaign finance report with County Clerk by Aug. 14

CHEYENNE—The Laramie County Clerk’s office reminds candidates for municipal and county offices of the Aug. 14 deadline for filing their pre-Primary campaign finance report with the County Clerk.

The report is to include campaign contributions made between January 1, 2017, and August 7, 2018. All candidates on the Primary election ballot are required to file, even if they did not receive or spend money during the campaign.

State law provides that persons failing to file by the deadline will have their name printed on a list, posted in the Clerk’s office, and made available to the public. Notification will also be sent to the candidate that they have 21 days from the date of the notice to comply with the filing requirement. Civil penalties of $200 may be imposed for failure to file.

Campaign finance report forms were provided to candidates by the Clerk’s office when they filed candidate applications. The form is also available on the Secretary of State’s website at:
